

Miles of Files

IT'S A SITE REMINISCENT of the final scene in Raiders of the Lost Ark except in this case, it's not government secrets being filed away in a gigantic warehouse. Rather, it's business records for people across Northeast Wisconsin and Upper Michigan stored at Automated Records Management Systems Inc.'s (A.R.M.S.) secure facility in De Pere.

The warehouse will soon make room for its one millionth box.

With tax laws requiring businesses (and individuals) to hold on to records for seven years, some faced with that daunting task choose to store their documents at A.R.M.S., which was founded in 1983 and provides information management and protection services to businesses throughout Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

So much for the paperless office.

— By MaryBeth Matzek